Jenny had been feeling a bit off-colour for the past few days. She had a nagging cough and was experiencing chest pains. Her symptoms were getting worse and she was starting to feel scared. She decided to go to the doctor for an examination. The doctor examined her and told her that she had come down with something serious. Jenny was taken aback by this news and didn't know what to do. The doctor prescribed a dose of medication and advised her to rest.

Jenny was under the weather for a few days, but the medication helped. She was back on her feet in no time. However, she still had a scar on her chest from the injury. She decided to get to the bottom of it and went back to the doctor for further examination. The doctor told her that she needed surgery to cure the problem. Jenny was nervous, but she knew she had to go under the knife to get better. After the surgery, she was alive and kicking and over the moon to be feeling better. However, it was a bitter pill to swallow when she found out that the surgery had left her with a bruise that would take some time to heal. But she was grateful that she had gotten the treatment she needed and was on the road to recovery

1. What was the initial reason for Jenny to seek medical attention, and what were the specific symptoms she was experiencing?
